Players and Teams

You can play ring toss with two to four players. If there are only two players who compete against each other, each player uses rings of a different color. Each player takes a turn and tosses each of his rings one at a time. If there are four players, they form two competing teams. Each player takes a turn throwing their rings. When all four players have taken a turn, the points are tallied.

Ring Toss Set Up

One style of ring toss board features a board with pegs placed vertically. Other variations include placing stakes in the dirt or using a wooden box with pegs or a single stake placed vertically in the ground. You can add or remove pegs to increase the difficulty. A simpler version is a board with one peg. You should place the pegboard or stakes 10 to 15 feet from the players. The players should toss the ring from behind a clear line, so everyone has to toss the ring the same distance.

Ring Toss Scoring 1 --- Ring toss is played up to 21 points.

A ringer is when a ring is thrown onto a peg or stake. Ringers count for three points. If a player gets two rings on the same peg, it is a double ringer and counts for six points. When players do not make any ringers, the ring closest to a peg gets one point. If two players both make ringers on the same peg, they cancel each other and no points are scored. In the case of a tie, the game continues till the tie is broken.

Ring Toss Scoring 2 --- Points :5/ 10/ 15/ 20/ 25.

Ringers count for points which marked on the base of each peg. The one who with the highest total score wins.
